FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Montana State University Registrar Leo Smith issued a reminder Monday that former students should notify his office immediately if they are returning fall quarter.

Packets of registration materials will be made up in advance for students who have indicated they will be back, the registrar explained. Students who have given advance notice of their return will be able to register with greater dispatch and so will have a better selection of courses and professors, he pointed out.

Former students and new transfer students with at least a year of college work will register Thursday, Sept. 21, the registrar said. Transfer students may not register, however, until they have taken a test scheduled at 1 p. m. Tuesday, Sept. 19, he added. Registration for this group will continue Friday, Sept. 22.

Entering freshmen should arrive on campus Sunday, Sept. 17, according to Smith. They will participate in a five-day program designed to acquaint them with college life and prepare them for formal registration, which is scheduled Friday, Sept. 22.
